

M'CAFFREY FILES NEW STATEMENT.

More Developments Come in Gold Mine Stock Suits
Against Stahl.

SAYS STAHL MISREPRESENTED

Plaintiff Avers That Stahl Wrote Him
Plant Cost $55,000 While Owners
Only Paid $9,500—He Wants $5,000
From Connellsville Man.

UNIONTOWN, April 15.—In the case of Charles K. McCaffrey against S. S. Stahl, claiming $5,000, the plaintiff's amended statement has been filed. The Stahl case was set for trial at the last term of court but continued because of the plaintiff's statement to show cause why a supplemental statement should not be allowed.

McCaffrey says his attention to the gold mining proposition was first called by a letter from Mr. Stahl, with circulars descriptive of the property, supplemented by a personal letter soliciting purchase of stock. Stahl is alleged to have written that "the plant as it stands today cost $55,000, and was owned by F. J. Taylor. We have incorporated for $50,000." McCaffrey says the letter also said the mine gave promise of making wealthy men out of all interested.

At the time of writing the letter Stahl was in California, where the property was located, and referred McCaffrey to Prof. Brooks, later principal of the Uniontown schools. McCaffrey soon purchased 2,000 shares for $10,000. Later Stahl visited him and made a sale of an additional stock. McCaffrey says he subsequently discovered that the statements of Stahl were false, that the property was not as represented and that the owners paid only $9,500 instead of $55,000, as claimed. McCaffrey sues for $5,000.

The first letter to McCaffrey from Stahl set forth that J. R. Davidson had purchased 5,000 shares, F. B. Hamilton a like amount and Joseph Madison 10,000 shares, these being Connellsville men.

The case against Stahl will likely be tried at the June session of civil court, it having been decided to hold civil court for one week, beginning the first Monday in June.

IS-REVIVING MEMORIES OF "PINAFORE" LONG AGO

Many Connellsville People Have Seen
The Production and Know Why
It Is Popular Still.

It was during an intermission at last night's rehearsal that Mrs. Charles E. Stout, who directs the music, learned over and over the surprise to a small coterie of critics that she had met so many people here in Connellsville who had sung in "Pinafore" many years ago. At least half a dozen have told her that they had participated in the opera.

"I am not surprised at that," was Manager Fred Robbins' comment. "Some 25 years ago 'Pinafore' was undoubtedly the most popular comic opera on the stage and it has not lost one whit of that fame."

Lately there has been a revival of the production and last fall the Metropolitan Opera Company opened the New York season by presenting it. Imagine Signor Scotti as "Dickens Deadeye" or Caruso as "Ralph Rackstraw." "Pinafore" is being rehearsed for a Pittsburgh appearance by one of the leading musical organizations of that city.

Director Charles E. Stout held a rehearsal in the theatre last evening and the entire score was sung through. The company is well up in its line while the songs have reached a near perfect stage. There will be a second rehearsal tonight and one tomorrow morning. Tomorrow evening the curtain will rise on the completed production. Performances will be given to-morrow evening, Saturday afternoon and Saturday night.

CIRCUS CAR HERE.

Cole Brothers' Show Here on April 29.

The first advance car of the great Cole Brothers' show arrived here this morning, and its 30 odd billposters, lithographs and bannermen got busy at once, heralding the coming of the show, which will be here on April 29.

This car bills in surrounding country within a radius of 25 miles from the place of exhibition, and the town in which the show will exhibit. The paper used by this show is elegant and in no way partakes of the over-exaggerated pictorial paper as often used by circuses. Every day this car uses 10 barrels of flour for paste and over 5,000 sheets of pictorial posters to say nothing of the smaller stuff, such as programs, lithographs and heralds.

There are 70 men in the advance of this show and from today until the show has exhibited here there will not be a day that the show will not have a representative in town.

We have one appearing in a recent issue of a Dunston paper under the caption of a delightful surprise party given by Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Rodetok at their residence in Smithfield, etc. Now these people live several miles from Smithfield and never did live here. It has been residents of the town would appear in the columns of the Courier the only daily in the county that has a credited correspondent in Smithfield.

She was well known about town and survived by her husband and three children. Interment will be made in the local Catholic cemetery here.

THURSDAY EVENING, APRIL 15, 1904.

A SEMI-DEMOCRATIC ORGAN'S PENSION HYPOCRISY.

The Semi-Democratic Uniontown Courier stimulates a great indignation because "the Republican machine" of Pennsylvania has refused to pension the old soldiers, and it says a great many things which it has never before even intimated, much less advocated, concerning the "right" of the old soldier to a State pension and the "outrage" of the Republican Legislature of the State in refusing to grant such pension.

The Courier will pose as a Democratic organ for the purpose of playing the game of factional politics, but its attitude has deceived few Democrats and no Republicans.

The Courier has not always been contented under the present ownership and management, and is perhaps not responsible for the views of its former owners and managers, but even within its present management it has shown a different face. It has time and again like most other Democratic influences arrayed itself against any pension for the Union soldiers.

The State Soldiers' Pension bill is divided by J. Henry Cochran of Williamsport, a Democratic leader of the Senate, not because he wanted to see the old soldiers get a State pension, nor because he ever cared whether they did or not, but only because he wanted to embarrass the Republican party. We pointed this fact out two years ago when he introduced a similar bill with a similar purpose. Neither he nor his party care a particle whether the old soldier gets a State pension or any other pension; in fact, Democratic voters have been so continued against any such pensions at any time to any person, and not until the proposition seemed to have some political advantage attached did the Courier experience a change of heart.

Pensioners are the peculiar curse of the Federal Government. They have always been so and will so remain as long as the Republican party controls the Federal policies.

It is worthy of remembrance in the consideration of the hypocritical attitude of the Courier, that the Democratic party was never before known to suggest pensions for Union soldiers. The Republican party has been the one and only friend of the Union soldier throughout all the years since the Civil War, and every intelligent veteran will understand that the failure of the Legislature to pass the Soldiers' Pension bill was not due to any unfriendliness, but to circumstances over which the Republican statesmen at Harrisburg had no control.

THE QUAY STATUE PROPERLY PLACED.

The opposition of some of the Democratic and insurgent statesmen at Harrisburg to the setting up of the statue of the late Senator Matthew Stanley Quay in the State Capitol was not only ungracious, but ugly and even brutal. It was the laudable attempt of little men to put upon the statue of one who had mounted to a higher station in public life than they can ever hope to attain.

Colonel Quay was a politician, a boss if you will, calculating, cunning, aggressive and successful, but he was also a soldier and a patriot, a leader of men and a statesman. His record at Washington shows that he served his State faithfully and fearlessly. Pennsylvania's interests were never more vigilantly and officially guarded than they were by Senator Quay.

The Beaver county statesman is dead. We should remember his virtues and forget his faults. We should honor him for the great and good things he did in life and forget the others. We are not all perfect.

Colonel Quay was a politician, it is true, but it must be remembered that few men in public life are not politicians, and that Senator Quay was not unlike his fellow members in the Senate, his colleagues in the House and his imitators everywhere. He differed from the generality of them only in the fact that he was nobler than they.

The Quay statue has been placed only when the judgment of time would have located it.

THE UNSIGHTLY, UNPROFITABLE AND IMMORAL BILL BOARDS.

The Uniontown Standard denounces the bill board nuisance in the following outspoken and emphatic terms:

When Congress came about for objects of taxation whereby to increase the public revenue, it should not omit the bill boards of the borough. Indeed, such boards might wisely be altogether prohibited in centers of population like ours as needless offenses against public taste. The practice was advised originally as a means of conveying information. This was before the days of newspaper news, but the latter have made bill posting almost unnecessary. It is a means to induce immorality through suggestive colored prints the authority of any community might account it a good work to order down all bill boards.

We try to charge with selfishness in this. Newspapers would probably benefit by such an order, but not sufficient to justify a charge of selfishness. The greater would be the public benefit, particularly if the bill boards are to be constantly and widely used to awaken the immoral instincts of the community. Some may say we are prejudiced in this, and laugh at us.

"Mebbe yes, mebbe no," as the Hunky man puts it, but it is better to be a prudent than a benet.

There are few more unsightly and suggestive things exposed to public gaze than the literature of the bill board, and some of it demands suppression in the interest of public morals.

The best place to advertise is in the columns of a decent newspaper.

If the Yough maintained its present stage during the summer season here would probably be no complaint about the Pennsylvania Railroad Company scooping up a portion of Indian creek.

Fayette county still contains some merchantable timber, but it is a shame to sell it to the woodman who spares not the tree.

An official inspection of Connelleville's milk develops a new which invite the suspicion that the Milk Trust has been watering its stock.

The joyous Gasteride was too joyful for some of our distinguished visitors who sought the freedom of the city.

A man is presumed to be innocent until he is proven guilty, but when he is found with a well-developed kit of burglar tools on his person the rule is slightly reversed.

We are told that Connelleville valuations remain about the same. We know of no reason why they should be higher.

The minister who mixes politics with his religion is paying the way to popular condemnation.

The County Auditors can't be accused of looting on the job.

The Democratic judicial primary promises to have all the Murrahons fuded.

The B & O has its own mine inspector, but he is probably more of a triple traffic inspector than anything else.

The Uniontown Standard wants to unload Castro upon us. It suggests that he be permitted to drink at Mud Island in order to give us a center of attraction. We have no ambition to become the center of trouble. In Fayette county that party line center is firmly fixed within the two Uniontown public buildings which are connected by the bridge of Sighs.

Another railway pedestrian met the common fate last night. Why will people walk in the shadow of death?

The Chicago Softingettes propose to invade the State Capitol at Springfield. It's English, doncher know.

The Pittsburg Hunp is again threatened with a shunt.

We would respectfully suggest that the horticultural development and maintenance of the City Hall Square be placed in the able and economical hands of the inmates of the borough bastille who are unable or unwilling to cough up a cash fine.

There is a doubt as to the number of fish in the trout streams of Fayette county and vicinity, but there will be plenty of fishing anyway.

A West Newton lad ran away to Washington City. Perhaps he wanted to promote the cause of the Youghiogheny river improvement, but in any event it is evident that he was seeking to improve his surroundings.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Western Pennsylvania—Generally fair today and Friday, warmer Friday, light east winds.

Store News

Lots of new things for you to see here this week and we ask you to come in and see them. Ask you to learn the prices and notice how eager we are for a share of your business this Spring. Made up our minds that we would rather do business this Spring with little or no profit than not do business at all, and when this store talks about less prices you'll do well to pay attention. It means that it is not a question whether we will sell the goods or not, but that it is up to you whether you will get your share of the bargains. These we mention below are not bargain goods bought for the occasion but goods from our regular stock bought to sell at prices higher than these quoted.

WHITE WAISTS AT $1.50 EACH.

Four dozen of these new waists, with more to follow. Waists that were bought to sell at $2.00 and worth every cent of it. Made as you would have your waists made. Front of open work embroidery on a good quality India linen. Back and sleeves trimmed with rows of tucks and sleeves lace finished.

SILK AND LACE WAISTS FOR $5.00.

Expect to sell these for $5.00 and $7.00 when bought them. Believe they are as pretty and stylish waists as we ever had in our store. Silk waists in black and colors. Lace waists in cream and white. Ask to see the waists and judge for yourself.

SILK DRESSES AT $17.00.

More of these this week. Told you about them before and had more calls than we had dresses. Made of best quality foulard. In neat new patterns. Colors that are especially good this Spring. Count up the cost of the material and the trimmings by the yard and you won't have to add much for the making. You have a dress like these cost you around $25.00.

LADIES' SUITS AT $20 and $25.

Suits that this store is proud to show and sell at these prices. Believe that they represent a saving to you of from $4.00 to $5.00 on each suit. But the one best way for you to find out whether this is true or not is to come and see the suits. Examine them carefully. See how they are made, and the material that's in them, and then decide for yourself whether or not they are the best suits you can buy for the money. Care not where you go. Hardly two alike in the entire showing.

YOUR CARPET WANTS

Different from most of your wants in that a Carpet is not bought to use a single season and for that reason you know to be doubly sure that your choice will be satisfactory in every way. Not going to quote you carpet prices here, that wouldn't tell you what you want to know. Going to tell you though, if you have a carpet want this season, to ask your neighbor about the kind of carpets we have here. Ask how they were made and laid and how they have worn. That is the kind of information you need when you go to buy a carpet. We'll run the risk of your neighbor sending you to this store, and all our telling would not convince you like the actual experience of some one who knows all about these carpets.

SPOTLESS TOWN FOR SCOTSDALE.

The Board of Health Is Making Active Spring Campaign.

MEETS WITH SOME OPPOSITION

May Have To Resort To Court To Bring Some to Engage in House Cleaning—Officer Goshorn Is Being Kept Busy.

SCOTSDALE, April 15.—The Board of Health has started a campaign of spring house cleaning activity that is stirring up the residents. Health Officer F. L. Goshorn is busy inspecting cellars and various outside premises that the Board believes need attention in the way of cleaning up to insure as healthful conditions as possible. In the majority of cases he has found an eagerness to follow the suggestions of the Board and whitewash and lime will be a popular thing in the cleaning up process. Some cellars have been found in a bad condition from decayed vegetable matter and water standing in them, and these will be cleaned up as soon as possible. In a few instances the Board of Health has come up against individuals who flatly refuse to contribute to the movement to make this a spotless town, and prefer for various reasons that they may advance to keep their premises in the unsanitary condition that the Board believes them to be in. It is possible that a resort to court may be necessary to bring these people to the point of cleaning up, a proceeding which in the State of Pennsylvania the Board of Health is always at an advantage, decisions nearly always being in their favor and for cleaning up, whether the owners or tenants believe that it should be done or not.

Score Beared Is Out Again.
Joe and Sam Steiner dusted off the big bulletin board that has rested in the rear of their tobacco store for these many months since the baseball season ended and brought it to the front last evening. The board was not up in the doorway of the store and on it was chalked the result of the opening day of the baseball season. A large and excited group surrounded the board and discussed baseball all evening.

The purpose of sending a picked corps of his men to Europe was to keep fully abreast of mining conditions and practice not only in the United States but in all parts of the world. These conditions will form the topics of discussion at today's meeting with the view that all of its employees in responsible positions may have the benefit of the results of their investigations.

More than ten years ago the Frick Company adopted in its mines in the Connellsville region rescue apparatus which is now being tested and endorsed at the United States Geological Survey stations throughout the country in order to secure the introduction of such apparatus at the coal mines of the country generally.

For the past eight years the same company has experimented with all known safety explosives and has installed them in their mines. The Frick company has introduced the system of ventilating and safety shafts in addition to the usual shafts in all of its deep mines, having drilled such auxiliary shafts on a systematic plan for fifteen years past. The company has also established special stations for the purpose of analyzing the air from its mines in order to determine in the most scientific manner possible, what elements of danger might be present. Many of the most serious sections of the mining law which was submitted to the last Legislature of Pennsylvania were framed upon the general rules which are in force at all the plants of the company. The first rule of the Frick code follows:

Strict compliance with the mining laws of the State of Pennsylvania shall be the first duty of each and every employee, at all times and under all circumstances, and safety must be the first consideration of superintendents, mine foremen and all others exercising authority, or connected with the direction of operations in every department; quality of product second; and cost of production third.

In addition to the above, the company has pursued a uniform policy of introducing and using compressed air instead of electricity as power in its mines, thus doing away with the danger from explosions from the sparking of electric lines and electrically-driven machinery. The company employs shot-bearers who are paid by the company. In some sections the miners are required to stand the extra expense of the shot-bearers.

Blasting in all gasous mines is done between shifts. All men are employed to supervise the drawing of the pillars and men are visited in their workings places two and three times each day. Separate travelling ways are provided for the men and in some instances they are conveyed to and

DOLLY of the CIRCUS

BY MARGARET MAYO

COPYRIGHT, 1928, BY BODD, MEAD AND COMPANY

"Where thou diest will I die!" Her arms went out blindly.

"Oh, you won't send me away, will you?" she sobbed. "I don't want to learn anything else just—except—from you." She covered her face and slipped, a little broken heap, at his feet.

In an instant the pastor's strong arms were about her; his stalwart body was supporting her. "You shan't go away. I won't let you—I won't! Do you hear me, Polly? I won't!"

Her breath was warm against his cheek. He could feel her tears, for arms about him, as she clung to him helplessly, sobbing and quivering in the shelter of his strong embrace. "You are never going to leave me—never!"

A new purpose had come into his life, the realization of a new necessity, and he knew that the fight which he must henceforth make for this child was the same that he must make for himself.

CHAPTER XI

It was into the Sunday school room to take off dust ere whistling and shouting, and Mandy as she came down the steps.

"All right," called Douglas. "Take these with you. Perhaps they may help." He gathered up the garments which Polly had left on the ground. His eyes were shining. He looked younger than Mandy had ever seen him.

Polly had turned her back at the sound of Mandy's voice and crossed to the elm tree, drying her tears of happiness and trying to control her newly awakened emotions. Douglas felt intuitively that she needed this moment for recovery, so he plied the leaves and garments high in Mandy's arms, then ran into the house with the light step of a boy.

"I got the set—settling room all tidied up," said Mandy as she shot a shy glance at Polly.

"That's good," Polly answered, facing Mandy at last and dimpling and blushing guiltily.

"Moe's de sociable folks will mos' "

"The big one?"

"You know—do one what brung you." "You don't mean?" Polly's question was answered by Jim himself, who had followed Hasty quickly through the gate. Their arms were instantly about each other. Jim forgot Hasty and every one in the world except Polly, and neither of them noticed the horrified Miss Perkins and the Widow Willoughby, who had been crossing the yard on their way from the Sunday school room with Julia.

"You're just as big as ever," said Polly when she could let go of Jim long enough to look at him. "You haven't changed a bit."

"You've changed enough for both of us," he looked at the unfamiliar long skirts and the new way of doing her hair. "You're bigger, Poll, more grown-up like."

"Oh, Jim!" She glanced admiringly at the new brown suit, the rather startling tie and the neat little pony in Jim's buttonhole.

"The fellows said I'd have to slick up a bit if I was a-comin' to see you, so as not to make you ashamed of me. Do you like 'em?" he asked, looking down approvingly at his new brown clothes.

"Very much." For the first time Jim noticed the unfamiliar manner of her speech. He began to feel self-conscious. A year ago she would have said "You bet!" He looked at her awkwardly. She hurried on: "Hasty told me you were showing in Wakefield. I knew you'd come to see me. How's Barker and all the boys?" She stopped with a gasp in her throat and added more slowly, "I suppose everything's different now that Tohy is gone."

"He'd 'a' liked to see you afore he cashed in," Jim answered, "but maybe it was just as well he didn't. You'd hardly 'a' known him toward the last, he got so thin and peaked like. He wasn't the same after we lost you—nobody was, not even Bingo."

"Have you still got Bingo?" she asked, through her tears.

"Yep, we got him," drawled Jim, "but he ain't much good no more. None of the other riders can get used "

"You're comin', ain't you, Poll?" The big face was wrinkled and careworn with trouble.

"No, Jim," she replied in a tone so low that he could scarcely hear her.

"You mean that you ain't never comin' back?" He tried to realize what such a decision might mean to him.

"No, Jim," she answered tenderly, for she dreaded the pain that she must cause the great, good-hearted fellow. "You mustn't care like that." She pleaded, seeing the blank desolation that had come into his face. "It ain't because I don't love you just the same, and it was good of Barker to keep my place for me, but I can't go back."

He turned away. She clung to the rough brown sleeve. "Why, Jim, when "

"I am a grain trader, I bought when the market looked cheap, as did others who accepted my view, and I am going to sell it at a profit if I can. I have already sold a great deal. I have more to sell, and when anybody offers me a proper price I will sell more. I sold some this morning, cash stuff, at $1.42. There is no corner, no manipulation. Others who bought early sell as demand develops."

Mr. Patten then diagnosed the situation as he understood it.

"For three or four years this has been coming and I saw it. At the end of each crop bins were empty everywhere. With increasing population here and abroad it was obvious that sooner or later the crop of one year would be exhausted before a new crop was at hand. Last fall, it not earlier, I saw it coming. I bought wheat and my friends did likewise. The great unthinking public here and in Europe would not, or could not, see what was coming. Liverpool would not buy months ago, thinking the prices of that day too high. Now Europe wants 55,000,000 bushels. The harvest was early last year. They have been trying to cover thirteen months instead of the usual twelve and they can't do it. We need wheat for the mills right here in Chicago now."

"Here's another point. If we had not bought wheat I guess myself and others—the price would be higher here than it is. Europe would have taken it, for the foreigners finally recognized the weakness of their position, and where would the domestic supply have come from? We would have been compelled to buy from the very Europeans we sold to. I regard it as fortunate that it was Americans who first discerned crop conditions and took advantage of it."

"I didn't know how you'd come to feel about it," he said doggedly.

"You aren't angry, Jim?" She turned to him anxiously, her eyes pleading for his forgiveness.

"Angry?" he echoed, almost bitterly. "I guess it couldn't ever come to the between you and me. I'll be all right." He shrugged his great shoulders. "It's just kinder sudden, that's all. You see, I never figured on givin' you up, an' when you said you wasn't comin' back it kinder seemed as though I couldn't see nothin' all my life but long, dusty roads an' nobody in 'em. But it's all right now, an' I'll just be gettin' along to the wagon."

This For You.

There is only one way to obtain a clear, transparent and flawless complexion; massages treatment makes the flesh "flabby" the so-called beauty creams containing glycerol or other greasy substances, fill up the pores of the skin, preventing them from doing their work properly, and also induce the growth of a fine, fuzzy hair on the face. If you would have a face entirely free from pimples, blotches, freckles, blackheads and kindred diseases of the skin, get the following prescription put up at any reliable Drug Store and your troubles will soon be over.

Clearola one-half ounce, Ether one ounce, Alcohol seven ounces. Mix. Shake well and apply to the face night and morning allowing it to remain at least ten minutes, the longer, the quicker results you will have. In extreme cases apply four or five times daily.

The flaky powder deposits on the face may be wiped off after a reasonable time. Do not use any soap, instead wash the face with oatmeal and a little powdered orris root tied up in a cheese cloth bag, and no matter how bad your face is, or what the cause may have been, this will surely cure it. This prescription is perfectly harmless and can be used on the most delicate skin.

Chicago Man Who Has Made Millions in the Last Few Days in Wheat Declares World's Supply is Low—Early Crop Following Shortage.

Chicago, April 15.—The appeal of Pittsburg, bakers to Secretary of State Knox to take steps to end manipulation of wheat excited comment by James A. Patten of Chicago, popularly alleged to control the present wheat market.

"In the first place," said Mr. Patten, "I don't control the market. My share at no time has run over 10,000 bushels, whereas I've reached the goal of higher wheat because I saw what was coming. I saw it first, I believe, but when it comes to controlling the market there are two or three hundred other men who have bought who have something to say about that."

SOUR STOMACH IS A SIGN OF INDIGESTION.

If you occasionally have a taste of sour food in your mouth, it surely shows that the food you are taking in to your stomach is not being digested, but instead, is fermenting and giving out poisonous gases.

Belching of gas is a common symptom at such times, and also that lump of lead feeling, as if your stomach was carrying a much greater load than it could stand.

These are sure symptoms of indigestion, and should be attended to at once.

If you want prompt relief and permanent cure, go to A. A. Clarke's drug store and get a large tin box of M-I-O-N-A tablets for 50 cents.

A. A. Clarke knows that M-I-O-N-A is a highly recommended scientific remedy, and that is why he is ready at all times to return your money if it fails to cure acid stomach, belching of gas, dizziness, biliousness, sick headaches, foul breath, and all stomach troubles, including the worst kind of indigestion.

M-I-O-N-A cures by removing the cause. It builds up the stomach, so fast that in a few days the blood, nerves, muscles, and the entire body receive increased nourishment, which results in a clearer complexion, bright eyes more energy and hopefulness.

"M-I-O-N-A" sold in every town in America.

Booth's Laxative Pills are great favorites with constipation sufferers. Nothing so sure, easy and efficient. 25 cents a box.

Last time dat 'ee Widow Willoughby dose set round all ebenin' a-tellin' de parson as how folks could jes' ent ent her kitchen door, an' I ups an' tells her as how folks could pick up a good square meal o'n Mandy's door too. Guess she'll be mighty careful what she says afore Mandy tonight." She chuckled as she disappeared down the walk to the Sunday school room.

Polly stood motionless where Mandy had left her. She hardly knew which way to turn. She was happy, yet afraid. She felt like sinking upon her knees and begging that to be good to her, to help her. She who had once been so independent, so self-reliant, now felt the need of direction from above. She was no longer master of her own soul. Something had gone from her, something that would never, never come again. While she had looked Hasty came through the gate, looking anxiously over his shoulder.

"Well, Hasty?" she said, for it was apparent that Hasty had something important on his mind.

"It's de big one from de circus," he whispered excitedly.

to his gait like you was. There ain't nobody with the show what can touch you ridin'; there never will be. Say, maybe you think Barker won't let out a yell when he sees you comin' back?" Jim was jubilant now, and he let out a little yell of his own at the mere thought of her return. He was too excited to notice the look on Polly's face. "Toby had a notion before he died that you was never a-comin' back, but I told him I'd change all that once I seen you, an' when Barker sent me over here today to look after the advertisin' he said he guess you'd had all you wanted o' church folks. 'Jes' you bring her along to Wakefield,' he said, 'an' tell her that her place is waitin' for her, an' I will too.' He turned upon Polly with sudden decision. "Why, I feel jes' like pickin' you up in my arms an' carryin' you right off now."

"Wait, Jim!" She put one tiny hand on his arm to restrain him.

"I don't mean—not today—maybe," he stammered uncertainly, "but we'll be back here a-showin' next month."

"Don't look at me now," Polly answered as the doleful eyes searched her face, "because I have to say something that is going to hurt you, Jim."

1 CHANGE IN 5 TO LIVE

Catcher Powers of Philadelphia American League Operated on.

Philadelphia, April 15.—Catcher Powers, one of the most popular players on the Philadelphia American league baseball team, was operated on for inguinal hernia. A section of the intestine was removed and the patient is said to be doing well. His illness is said to have been caused by a sandwich which he ate during a game. A surgeon, describing the operation, said that Powers has about one chance in five of living. Mrs. Powers, summoned from her home in Jeffersonville, Pa., gave her consent to the operation. More than a foot of the intestine was removed.

VAUDEVILLE AT SOISSON.

All Next Week Devoted to Fine Acts and Moving Pictures.

The much heralded Russian strong man, Maximus, makes his debut in Connelville at the Soisson Theatre, on Monday, April 19th, and will remain three days. He heads a program of interesting vaudeville and moving pictures at 5 cents and 10 cents admission. His challenge, issued several days ago, to foreman, whereby he agreed to go his strength against two of the strongest draft horses in the city on Monday night, has excited a great deal of attention. The Indians are that the theatre will be packed to overflowing by a crowd curious to see the strongest man in the world. This Russian Hercules is the unbeaten wonder of the world's championship belt for feat of superhuman strength. He is reputed to be an escaped exile who was sent to Siberia for political offence, and whose champion-like strength enabled him to thwart the Russian guards and to cast off the shackles of his dungeon, break down the bars of his prison cell and literally fight his way to liberty. In his tremendous feat of pulling two horses together, he stands between the animals holding them across length while they are urged in opposite directions. Summoning all his strength, Maximus pulls the horses together. His phenomenal muscular development permits him to perform acts of hardihood that would kill any other man. One of these is that of permitting a full-sized, full-weight touring automobile to pass over his stomach. This is his first American tour. He created an immense sensation in New York, where he broke enormous chains, bent heavy steel bars over his corrugated biceps and tossed giant cannon balls in the air, as if they were bubbles. His act opens with a scene representative of his prison in Siberia, with the struggling giant behind the bars. He breaks out of his imported prison in the same manner that he did in the real one in the wilds of the Czar's frozen country.

NO ONE KNEW WHAT CAUSED IT.

No one could have told you what caused rheumatism twenty-five years ago, and it seems a large number do not know yet, for recently a popular weekly publication came out with an article by a well known and learned specialist, who frankly stated that rheumatism was so elusive that one could not fathom it. He was mistaken in saying that no one could do this, for he neglected to remember "Rheumaline" in his reckoning. Graham & Company's Drug Store are free to admit that Rheumaline has done more for rheumatism than anything they have ever handled, and they have watched the effect of Rheumaline's medicine, and as they sell all, naturally their view would be unbiased.

There is only one reason for Rheumaline's success, and that is that it does the business. It acts quickly and effectively and by direct contradiction to the ancient gentleman's statements above. Rheumaline is a sure and certain relief for rheumatism.

but wholly now and the man has such perfect control over his lips and throat muscles that one may place the most powerful glass on him and yet not detect the slightest movement.

Howard and Maria will create a diversion by introducing a talking sketch with songs and dances appropriately interlarded. They are a pair of young and gifted vaudevillians lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, gout and kidney, liver, bladder, stomach and blood troubles caused by uric acid, and it does not injure the stomach nor affect the heart action because it contains no injurious drugs or opiates. Rheumaline has thousands of unsatisfied salesmen and saleswomen, unsatisfied because of their own choosing. Rheumaline has cured them and they can not recommend it too highly. Don't let prejudice be a detriment of your health. Just because Rheumaline is advertised is no sign it is unworthy of consideration. We could not list in business if there was no merit to Rheumaline. Graham & Company's Drug Store, which has the sole agency of Rheumaline, could not recommend it consistently if it were not worthy. Think it over—then try it out. Rheumaline Capsules relieve pain immediately, and Rheumaline Tablets are a quick and pleasant relief for constipation. Get Rheumaline. It removes the cause.

with a versatility that promises to bring them close up among the leaders in the large vaudeville theatres of America.

The Edwards will do an eccentric singing and dancing turn. Elsie Jayne will entertain with buck and wing dances.

A new series of moving pictures will follow the list of vaudeville turns.
